New CRS Resource for the Easter Season

CRS has developed memes for the Sundays from Easter through Pentecost that connect a line from the Scripture readings with images of people around the world. We hope that these will meet people where they are—on social media—and invite them to reflect on how the Scriptures have meaning in our modern, global community.

We will publish these memes weekly throughout the Easter Season on our CRS social media channels, but the whole set of memes is also available online in English and Spanish to be downloaded and used by others. We will be pairing these memes with the two hashtags #SundayScriptures and #LivingWord to highlight the way that Scripture comes alive in our world.

CRS Diocesan Director Reflects on the Impact of the CRS Parish Ambassador Program in One Parish

By Kelly Ann Davis, MA, Dir. Catholic Commission of Lake/Geauga and CRS Diocesan Director for Diocese of Cleveland

When we started the Catholic Relief Services Parish Ambassador Core (PAC) program at Ss. Robert and William Parish in Euclid, Ohio (Diocese of Cleveland) I called and talked to Fr. Scott Goodfellow, who had been an active CRS Global Fellow. He agreed that the program would be a great addition to the ministries already taking place in his parish. Fr. Goodfellow recruited five amazing women in the parish, and a couple who’d talked to him about getting more active in the parish, to come to our October retreat. The women came, not because they knew much about the workings of Catholic Relief Services. These wonderful ladies came because their priest invited them to come and told them that it would be worthwhile, and they were instantly hooked. Click here to read the complete article.
NEWS from the Northeast/Mid-Atlantic Regional Office

Lecturer Expresses Hope for Syrian Refugees
Chandreyee Banerjee, regional development director of Catholic Relief Services gave the Founder’s Day keynote address based on her first-hand experiences dealing with the Syrian Crisis in the Middle East and Europe. Her address was one of many lectures that took place during the Cabrini’s Lenten Lecture Series on Immigration. In her address, Chandreyee shared details about her first impressions of being in the Middle East and working closely with the Syrian Crisis. Please read the details of Chandreyee’s lecture in Cabrini’s The Loquitur under the article titled “Founder’s Day lecturer expresses hope for Syrian refugees.”

CRS Rice Bowl Lenten Speaker Tour: Pascasie Musabyemungu by Danielle Corea and Mari Barboza
Amahoro—peace for Rwanda and for America was the message of Pascasie Musabyemungu, CRS staff from Rwanda. She traveled throughout the northeastern region during the first week of March as part of the Catholic Relief Services Lenten speaker tour. Pascasie shared stories of peace and reconciliation from her home country and how the work of Catholic Relief Services has improved the lives of those in Rwanda. She explained the goals of the Small Income Lending Communities (SILC) and Women Building Peace Across Borders, which brings together 60 female traders from Burundi, Rwanda, and The Democratic Republic of the Congo. Reflection from Haiti—In Truth and Charity by Bishop Kevin C. Rhoades
Bishop Kevin Rhoades (Fort Wayne-South Bend) is on the CRS Board, and he recently traveled with CRS to visit our partners in Haiti. The diocesan paper published an excellent 3-page spread with Bishop Rhoades’ reflection on CRS’ work, along with pictures! You can read his reflections here http://www.todayscatholicnews.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/01/04haiti.pdf

Good Shepherd Food Pantry is helped by 25% proceeds from CRS Rice Bowl.
In the Archdiocese of Indianapolis The Criterion Online Edition recently published a piece about their local 25% proceeds from Rice Bowl. Members of the 98 schools, parishes and organizations of the archdiocese who participated in the Catholic Relief Services (CRS) Rice Bowl program last year would expect that their donations helped the needy in other countries. But Rice Bowl participants at Holy Trinity Parish in Edinburg probably didn’t know they also helped the Good Shepherd Food Pantry in Terre Haute. You can read more here: http://www.archindy.org/criterion/local/2016/02-19/ricebowl.html

Helping Hands: Join the Movement
CRS Helping Hands is a Catholic volunteer and formation event that allows participants to serve their brothers and sisters overseas in a tangible way. Rooted in the Eucharistic imperative to be the hands and feet of Christ in the world, participants work together to address hunger in both the short term and the long term. Here are two CRS Helping Hands resources: Embody Christ's Love, a video that introduces CRS and Helping Hands and Global Poverty Reflection Walk, an activity which allows participants to connect their lives with our brothers and sisters living in poverty overseas through prayers and reflections.

A Deacon's View - A Reflection on a Recent Global Fellows visit to the Balkans
by Deacon Steve Swope

The flow of refugees in Serbia is continuous and most of the people are transiting the country, coming from FYROM (Macedonia) to Croatia. This short video tells a bit of their story. Dino, who you will see in the video works for Catholic Relief Services and understands the plight of refugees; he was a refugee during the war in Bosnia and Serbia in the 1990’s. Refugees...Who are they? Really Who are They? video gives some perspective about the refugees and is very representative of the people that we encountered while in Serbia. It is two minutes that you may want to spend to have a better understanding.

If you would like to request a Global Fellow please contact us at globalfellows@crs.org.

2016 Annual CRS Diocesan Directors Meeting at Catholic Social Ministry Gathering

A record snowfall in DC this year during CSMG did not cancel the gathering and there was a CRS Diocesan Director in attendance for every inch of snow that fell and then some. These mission oriented and dedicated participants traveled from across the United States for the annual CRS Diocesan Directors’ meeting at the Catholic Social Ministry Gathering on January 23rd. CRS Diocesan Directors and other partners present were inspired by Executive Vice President Joan Rosenhauer’s presentation in which she asked “How can CRS be a better team at working to assist our partners?” Donal Reilly, Director of CRS Humanitarian Response Department presented an update of the agency's humanitarian and emergency response efforts around the world. Please contact Jacklyn Ireland at Jacklyn.ireland@crs.org for additional details on the presentations of Joan Rosenhauer and Donal Reilly.

Kathleen O’Toole, Capacity Building Specialist for the Partnership, Training & Engagement Unit has compiled the notes from the table discussions around “Engaging Catholics in the US in Global Solidarity with CRS” – with a focus on Diocesan Capacity Building, Parish Engagement, Advocacy as a Leadership Development Tool, and Diocesan Collaboration around Hispanic Engagement. Thanks goes out to all who participated in the sharing process.

Pam Long, regional director for Catholic Social Action and the CRS Diocesan Director in the Archdiocese of Cincinnati, received the 2016 CRS Rice Bowl Award at this year’s annual CRS Diocesan Directors’ meeting. “Pam Long’s commitment and enthusiasm have been contagious in the Archdiocese. She inspires parishes and schools to embrace Lent as a season of faithful reflection as well as action, creating a positive impact on the lives of the most vulnerable people overseas as well as in our own local communities,” said Joan Rosenhauer, CRS Executive Vice President of U.S. Operations. Brian Backe, CRS Senior Director of the Programs and Resources unit presented the award.

CRS UNIVERSITY: CRS STUDENT AMBASSADOR ONLINE TRAINING

This section of the newsletter is geared towards university students so please share it. CRS University is looking for students who would like to support our work on campuses through the CRS Student Ambassador program. Here are some ideas and tips for students who are currently CRS Student Ambassadors and want to recruit others and those seeking information about the program. Check out the video on page 5 of this newsletter for more information.

IDEAS & TIPS FOR USE

We envision this supporting your work on campus to connect faith to global solidarity through CRS in many ways—here are a few that come to mind:

• A starting point for engaging with the CRS Student Ambassador program if your campus has been wanting to get involved or is considering collaboration. (continued on page 5)
• A way to engage with CRS University at any time, on any schedule, in any setting—so that you don’t have to wait for regional or on-campus trainings to roll around.
• A formation opportunity within an already existing CRS Student Ambassador program—segments can be pulled out to facilitate discussion, reflection, and community building.
• An opportunity to train new ambassadors within an already existing CRS Student Ambassador program at any time during the year.
• A way to meet the application criteria for our CRS SALT Summit this summer if you haven’t already participated in a training this year.
• Can be followed up on your campus by a video conference or in-person conversation with CRS Staff. Please contact danielle.roberts@crs.org to request.

Join CRS University as a CRS Student Ambassador on your campus (or as an accompanying Staff Advisor)! Start by watching this training, either alone or with a group from campus.
