RECOMMENDED SET UP

If gathering virtually, consider how you can adapt the following recommendations to enhance your event.

- Food: CRS Rice Bowl offers simple, meatless meals from various countries where CRS works. Visit crsricebowl.org/recipe for recipes and encourage students to make one of the meals before you gather for the prayer service.
 - If gathering in-person, consider inviting participants to a potluck-style dinner of simple meals from around the world.
- Tables: Set up enough tables for all participants to have a place. Put a Rice Bowl on each table, or at different places along a single table.
- Map: Tape the map to a wall in the communal space.
- Advocacy: Be prepared to lead others through completing an advocacy letter to Congress. Review the “Advocacy Preparation Directions” at the end of this document in advance of the event.
- PowerPoint: You may choose to create a PowerPoint to guide your event by adding the prayers, photos from the CRS Rice Bowl Stories of Hope and the advocacy instructions you choose.
- Space: Review more information about global hunger at crs.org/act and display posters with stories and information or images from CRS’ work around the world.

PROGRAM

Opening Prayer

Almighty and ever-living God,

You are the God of life, and you have created the earth and all that is in it to sustain and nourish us. We know that many people lack access to nutritious food, and we are pained by the injustice of a world in which women, men and children go hungry each day. Provide sustenance to our sisters and brothers who experience hunger and give us courage to lead the way to a more just world where every person has the nutritious food they need to thrive.

Amen

Introduction

LEADER: Consistent access to sufficient nutritious food is necessary for good physical and mental health, and for honoring the dignity of each person. We must work to end global hunger by both responding to immediate hunger emergencies and addressing the root causes. Today we will hear stories of communities around the world who have been impacted by hunger and who are responding in innovative ways to ensure they have access to good nutrition. We invite you to reflect on how we as a community can act in accordance with our faith to be prophetic advocates against this global injustice.

Stories of Global Hunger

READER ONE: Adolf and his wife, Florence, are farmers in Akwangagwel, Uganda.

Their family works hard each day to garden, clean, prepare meals and care for the animals. In the evenings, they enjoy spending time together.

In the area where they live, the climate is very dry. Lately, the rainy season has been coming later than it used to. And sometimes, it rains too much all at once and causes flooding.

To overcome these obstacles, Adolf and Florence joined a Catholic Relief Services program where they learned new farming methods that help them grow crops even when it is hot and dry. This provides enough food to eat and to sell at the market for extra income.

“I have seen my children are happy because they are well fed,” Adolf says.

Adolf and Florence are now sharing the knowledge they learned with others so that their community can thrive as well.

READER TWO: In Sandra’s home in Morazán, El Salvador, everyone helps with the chores by lighting the firewood to cook, making breakfast or grinding corn.

Santos, Sandra’s husband, is a farmer, but extreme weather has reduced his harvests and, therefore, his income. Seeking to earn extra money, Sandra began selling food. When she heard about a Catholic Relief Services project on raising chickens, she didn’t hesitate to join. She learned about preparing food for chickens and how to vaccinate them.

Sandra began to apply her knowledge with the chickens provided by the project. Now her family has access to their own eggs, saving them money on food. Sandra wants to support other families so she teaches them everything she has learned.

Our Catholic faith teaches us all people should participate in society, seeking the well-being of all, especially that of our sisters and brothers in need, just as Sandra does.

READER THREE: Located between the Pacific and Indian Oceans, Indonesia has more than 17,000 islands. Many of the islands are in the Ring of Fire, where volcanic eruptions and earthquakes are common. Climate-related disasters such as cyclones also threaten communities here.

These natural disasters make it difficult for people like Evita Tiro Wada to grow food. To help her family and community, Evita participated in a Catholic Relief Services’ program. She joined a disaster preparedness group, which helps people stay safe during emergencies.

The group also maintains a community garden, using special farming methods to grow vegetables even during a drought. They teach people how to start their own gardens and care for their community by picking up trash and planting trees.

Evita says, “When I first joined the village disaster preparedness group, I thought, ‘What will I do or give to help the community?’ After I’ve been involved, I see the benefits of what the community and I did.”

READER ONE: These three stories show how communities around the world—with support from CRS—are addressing global hunger and malnutrition. I now invite anyone else gathered here to share how they have encountered hunger either globally or locally. Taking turns, go to the world map and tell a story of solidarity. It could simply be the name of someone you would like to pray for, a profound experience you had or something else you want to call to mind.

If participants brought simple meals potluck-style from the CRS Rice Bowl recipe archive:

If you brought a dish, you may also wish to tell a story or share information regarding CRS programming in the country from which your recipe originated.

READER TWO: Now that we have heard stories of global solidarity, touchstones in other countries, cultures and traditions, we will provide space to respond with concrete action so that we can directly contribute to creating a world in which all people have access to the food they need to thrive.

Advocacy

See the “Advocacy Preparation Directions” section at the end of this resource for more details on how to lead participants through an advocacy action.

LEADER: Pope Francis said, “An authentic faith—which is never comfortable or completely personal—always involves a deep desire to change the world, to transmit values, to leave this earth somehow better than we found it ... If indeed ‘the just ordering of society and of the state is a central responsibility of politics,’ the Church ‘cannot and must not remain on the sidelines in the fight for justice’” (Evangelii Gaudium, no. 183). We can support people experiencing hunger and malnutrition by contributing to the work of organizations like Catholic Relief Services, by volunteering to support local agencies in our own communities and by using our voice through advocacy.

We must ask our government to do all in its power to meet the immediate needs of those experiencing food insecurity and work to address the root causes of hunger and malnutrition. Let’s share with our nation’s leaders the real stories of the communities in Uganda, El Salvador and Indonesia, and join the voices of students and advocates across the country to ensure our nation leads the way with policies that promote justice, peace and a brighter future for all.

Note: Lead the group in their advocacy action. Be sure to remind them to personalize their message.

Closing Prayer

Use the “Give Us a Hunger for Justice, Lord” prayer or another prayer to close the service.

ADVOCACY PREPARATION DIRECTIONS

- Instruct participants to navigate to the online letter by texting HUNGER to 677-68. Participants will receive a direct link to the letter in response.
- Encourage participants to personalize their letters to make them 10 times more impactful.
- Visit the CRS Action Center at crs.org/act for more resources and tools on how to write an effective letter to your members of Congress.

Give us a Hunger for Justice, Lord

God of abundance,
You gave us the earth to be enjoyed by all creatures,
to be our common home.
You blessed us with the sun, water and bountiful land
so that all might be nourished.
How can we ask you to eliminate hunger when you have already given us the tools to prevent it?

Perhaps, Lord, we must ask you for a more just heart, a more generous heart.
The scandal of hunger and malnutrition in our world of plenty shows us that we have not been good stewards of what you have entrusted to us.
Forgive us, Lord!

You taught us to break bread together.
You showed us how to share
when you multiplied the loaves and the fish.
May we believe again and break our bread to share it among all people.
May we follow your example and bring what we have trusting that you will multiply it in new ways.

Open our minds and touch our hearts
so that we attend to the root causes of hunger.
May we not avert our eyes in the face of natural disasters.
May our only war be against poverty.

May we help each person secure what they need not only to survive, but to thrive.
Most of all, help us to be conscious that our common home
belongs not only to us,
but to all future generations,
and that it is our responsibility to preserve it.

You call us to respond to the immediate needs of our brothers and sisters while also working toward just and lasting solutions to hunger.
Give us your strength to lead the way and persevere in our mission to build a more just world.

You call us to make decisions that help all people, not just ourselves.
Give us your strength not to waver in our effort to lift up the cry of the earth and the cry of the poor.

May our hunger for justice remain until all creatures have a share in earth's bounty and all people have enough nutritious food not only to survive
but to thrive.

Lord, give us a hunger for justice.

Amen
