

Father, help us to honor you in all we do.

When the great humanitarian act of our day may be a smile,
without showing our own weariness,
despite our own misgivings,
a welcoming expression that reveals our trust in you.
Father, help us to honor you in all we do.

When great healing requires only an encouraging word,
let us speak blessing and peace.
Let us build up others around us with our speech.
Let us store your word in our hearts.
Father, help us to honor you in all we do.

When great service to our God
is a cup of water for the “least of these,”
provides a meal to a grieving family,
holds a friend’s hand through loss,
simply and humbly listens,
truly and deeply forgives,

Amen
